Superfadtastic

Superfad has just relaunched their site, and to make sure they start things off right, they've also posted a jaw-droppingly epic :60 Pioneer spot entitled "Enter."

I've long been a fan of Superfad, so it's very vindicating to take a spin through this updated portfolio full of solid work. The Pioneer spot alone should help edify their position as a premier motion house. It's the kind of balls-to-the-wall virtuosic display of talent that encourages frame-by-frame review.

The "action poetry" posted in the quickies also contains a piece done at FAD, and a comparison between the two would read like the latest Fast and Furious flick vs. 2001: A Space Odyssey. One is lyrical, the other is lacquer.

Is the lacquer REALLY holding your attention?
